Wright-Patt Credit Union Among the Best in Ohio

Dayton, OH – Wright-Patt Credit Union (WPCU) has been recognized as a top credit union in Ohio by Forbes. On multiple occasions, Forbes has singled out WPCU for its high level of customer service and satisfaction.

Market research firm Statista surveyed more than 25,000 credit union members across the United States for opinions on current and former banking relationships. Each credit union was scored on overall recommendations and satisfaction as well as five subcategories: trust, terms and conditions, branch services, digital services, and financial advice. WPCU scored exceptionally well in all areas surveyed and was necessary to receive this honor; less than 4 percent of all credit unions in America achieved scores high enough to be recognized by Forbes.

“We work hard every day to be the best organization our members have ever experienced,” said Tracy Szarzi-Fors, Vice President of Business Development and Marketing. “We provide the types of financial tools that make our members’ lives a little easier and this recognition validates our efforts.”
